HISTORICAL RECORDS ARE EVERYWHERE

Blog invites Kansans to share their favorite research finds during October for Archives Month

TOPEKA, KS— Maybe it was a newspaper collection at your local library where you realized your great-grandmother had been part of the women's suffrage movement. Perhaps it was a photo at your county's historical society that made you realize your favorite coffee shop used to be a soda fountain. The Kansas State Historical Records Advisory Board (KSHRAB) invites Kansans to share their favorite research finds during Archives Month in October. The blog is located at <http://archiveskansas.wordpress.com>.

KSHRAB has designated this year's Archive Month theme as "Historical Records Are Everywhere." The blog will help KSHRAB to collect information about the documents and treasures held by Kansas institutions—historical societies; museums; county government; library, college, and university special collections; and college and university archives. This information will be used in the future to create a dynamic directory of archives in Kansas.
