As mobilization efforts of World War I depleted male agricultural laborers, opportunities emerged for women to serve in fields at home and directly assist with maintaining food production. The Woman’s Land Army of America, depicted here in Herbert Paus’s 1918 poster by the same name, was an important organization that was modeled on the British Land Army and involved nearly twenty thousand women across the U.S. Courtesy of the National World War I Museum and Memorial, Kansas City, Missouri.
“To the Other Side of the Sun”: Indigenous Diplomacy and Power in the Midcontinent
by Garrett Wright

Exercising the Pencil: George Winter and the Potawatomis’ Removal to Kansas
by Bonnie Lynn-Sherow

African American Farmers of Nicodemus, Kansas: An Archaeological Examination of the Thomas Johnson and Henry Williams Farmstead
by Margaret C. Wood, Christine D. Garst, Robert J. Hoard, and Virginia A. Wulfkuhle

Editor’s Note

Reviews

Book Notes

Index
The journal is available as one of many benefits of membership with the Kansas Historical Foundation. Find more information online at kshs.org/11413.

The journal publishes scholarly articles, edited documents, and other materials that contribute to an understanding of the history and cultural heritage of Kansas and the Central Plains. Political, social, intellectual, cultural, economic, and institutional histories are welcome, as are biographical and historiographical interpretations and studies of archaeology, the built environment, and material culture. Articles emphasizing visual documentation, exceptional reminiscences, and autobiographical writings are also considered for publication. Genealogical studies are generally not accepted.

Manuscripts are evaluated anonymously by scholars who determine their suitability for publication based on originality, quality of research, significance, and presentation, among other factors. Previously published articles or manuscripts that are being considered for publication elsewhere will not be considered. The editors reserve the right to make changes in accepted articles and will consult with the authors regarding such. The publishers assume no responsibility for statements of fact or opinion made by contributors.

Illustrations appearing in the journal, unless otherwise noted, are from the collections of the Kansas Historical Society. Re-productions of images from the Society’s collections are available for purchase. Please contact the State Archives Division for ordering information: kshs.org/14154; 785-272-8681, ext. 321.

Kansas History follows the Chicago Manual of Style, 16th edition (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2010). A style sheet, which includes a detailed explanation of the journal’s editorial policy, is available at kshs.org/12447. Articles appearing in Kansas History are available online at the Kansas Historical Society’s website (kshs.org/12445) and from EBSCO Publishing. They are available on microfilm from ProQuest Microfilms.

The Edgar Langsdorf Award for Excellence in Writing, which includes a plaque and an honorarium of two hundred dollars, is awarded each year for the best article published in Kansas History. The editors welcome letters responding to any of the articles published in the journal. With the correspondent’s permission, those that contribute substantively to the scholarly dialogue by offering new insights or historical information may be published. All comments or editorial queries should be addressed to the editors, Kansas History: A Journal of the Central Plains, Department of History, Kansas State University, 208 Eisenhower Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS 66506-1002; 785-532-6730; email: KHJournal@k-state.edu

Kansas History (USPS 290 620) is published quarterly by the Kansas Historical Foundation, 6425 SW 6th Avenue, Topeka, KS 66615-1099 (kshs.org), officially the Kansas State Historical Society, Inc., an IRS determined 501(c)(3) non-profit. It is distributed to members of the Kansas Historical Foundation. Annual membership rates are $30 for students, $40 for individuals, $50 for organizations, $60 for households, and $70 for international. Single issues are $7. Contact Vicky Henley, executive director and CEO, Kansas Historical Foundation, at 785-272-8681, ext. 201, for more information. Periodicals postage paid at Topeka, Kansas, and additional mailing office in Lawrence, Kansas. Postmaster: Send address changes to Kansas History, 6425 SW 6th Avenue, Topeka, KS 66615-1099.
Wide-Open Town
Kansas City in the Pendergast Era
Edited by Diane Mutti Burke, Jason Roe, and John Herron

“From the North End to the Country Club District, from the West Bottoms to downtown skyscrapers—Wide-Open Town’s contributors and editors prowl the corners of one of the nation’s most vital cities during that long interwar moment when Kansas City’s politics and culture fused to form a unique mix of idealism, conflict, and possibility. The story that emerges from their essays is essential not just for those who know and love this city but for anyone seeking fresh insight into the roots of late twentieth-century metropolitan America.”—Eric T. Sandweiss, Carmony Chair and professor of history, Indiana University
384 pages, 54 photographs, 1 map, Cloth $50.00, Paper $29.95

Justice on Fire
The Kansas City Firefighters Case and the Railroading of the Marlborough Five
J. Patrick O’Connor

“This is a powerful story that needs to be told—and O’Connor knows how to tell it, flashing his narrative chops from the get-go with a riveting description of the explosions. As he acknowledges, O’Connor is an ‘advocate for the five convicted,’ and it is important to view the book through that lens.”—Daniel S. Medwed, author of Prosecution Complex: America’s Race to Convict and Its Impact on the Innocent
352 pages, 16 photographs, Cloth $34.95

Larry Schwarm
Kansas Farmers
Edited by Kate Meyer
With a Foreword by Nancy Kassebaum Baker

“The beautiful photography of Larry Schwarm: Kansas Farmers illustrates the importance of balance in the use of our Earth. Kansas farmers and ranchers are keenly aware of the seasons—when to reap and when to sow. The weekly weather forecast becomes the bellwether of our lives. Farmers and ranchers have come back from devastation, dust storms, and depression. The backbone of Kansas farming and ranching is our communities—and these communities still represent our heritage and are important in discussions to the challenges we face today.”—Nancy Kassebaum Baker, Former United States Senator
128 pages, 55 color photographs, 50 maps, Cloth $29.95

University Press of Kansas
Phone (785) 864-4155 • Fax (785) 864-4586 • www.kansaspress.ku.edu